

Allstate in Alabama

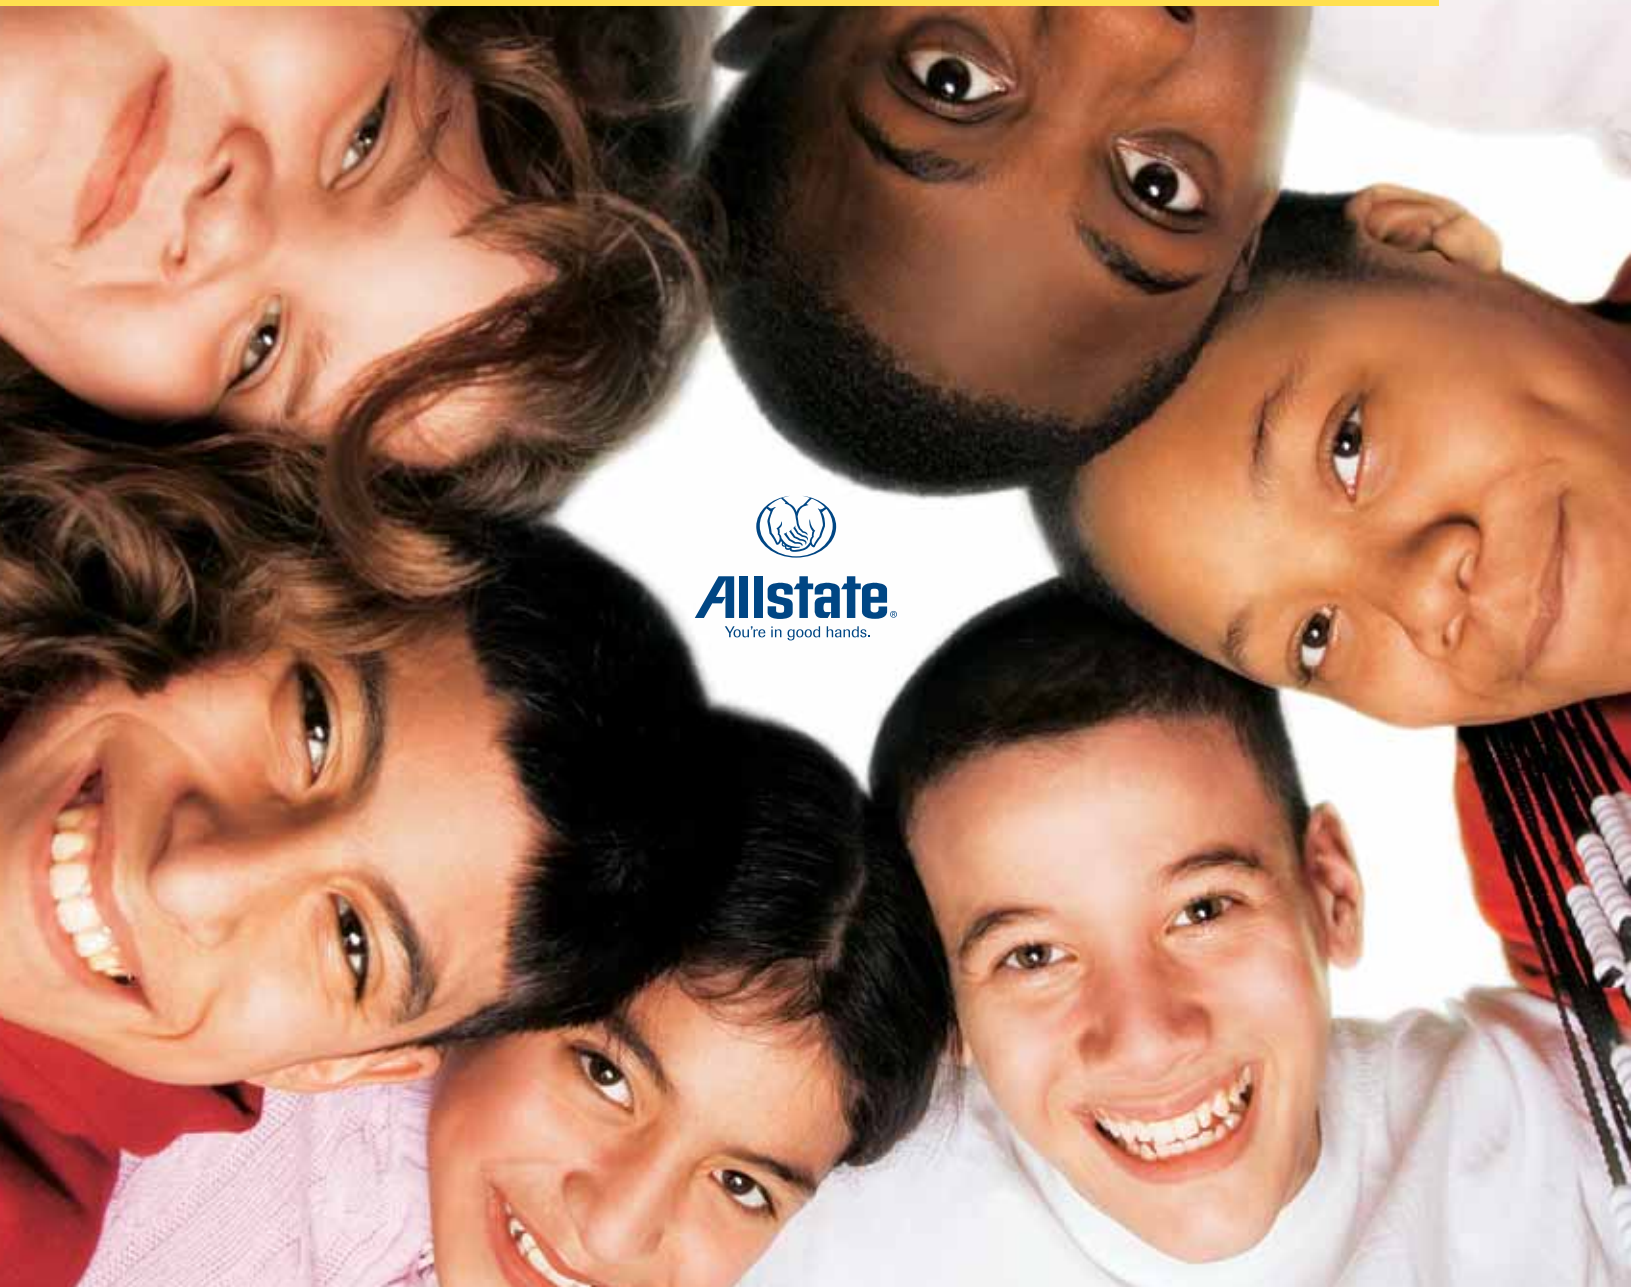

For more than seven decades, Allstate has built its reputation on promising to be there when customers need help to protect their lives, families, property and communities. We help them achieve financial security, through our insurance and financial products. Our intent is to be there when people buy cars and homes, start new businesses, send their children to college or plan for retirement. We are also there to help them through times of loss.

The values that help guide our business – integrity, caring, dependability, diversity and performance – are also at the core of our commitment to the 193,805 families in Alabama communities that make the success of our region possible.

In both our regional area and across the country, Allstate is committed to strengthening our communities, protecting our customers, providing a great place to work and operating our business with integrity. That's our stand.

Volunteering in the community: Helping Hands

The Allstate Helping Hands program has been recognized for showing their compassion to communities all across America. The Alabama Helping Hands Market Claim Office committee organizes volunteer events that support their communities. They can be found painting homes, cleaning parks, working in soup kitchens, visiting children in hospitals and conducting food and clothing drives throughout local communities.

Birmingham Auto Express MCO flexed its giving heart by volunteering to serve the homeless at a Thanksgiving dinner. Volunteers helped prepare and serve meals for well over 100 people.

Employee "Helping Hands" Grants Our employees are committed to the development and growth of their communities. Hundreds of volunteer hours are given to nonprofit organizations to help impact their community programs. For Allstate employees in Alabama "You're in Good Hands with AllstateSM" is more than a company slogan – it's a way of life. Through their volunteer efforts, they put time, energy, expertise and compassion behind community projects, making a significant impact in the lives of those they touch. The Allstate Helping Hands program has been recognized for demonstrating our compassion to communities all across America. With more than 200 committees countrywide, Alabama's employees volunteered with a number of organizations. On behalf of those employees, Allstate donated $500 to each organization.
