

Allstate in Hawaii

Allstate makes the business promise every day to give customers peace of mind and to help them quickly recover from misfortune by protecting their lives, families, property and communities.

We believe it's our responsibility to go beyond that promise by building partnerships to help improve the Hawaii community as a whole. These partnerships are demonstrated and supported through corporate sponsorships, community volunteerism, and by the financial contributions of The Allstate Foundation.

For example, The Allstate Foundation has partnered with Junior Achievement (JA) to help educate Hawaii's youth about business and economics. Besides providing Allstate Foundation funding to JA of Hawaii, a number of Hawaii agents and employees volunteer to teach the JA curriculum in local schools.

The values that help guide our business – integrity, caring, dependability, diversity and performance – are also at the core of our commitment to Hawaii communities that make our success possible.

Both here in Hawaii and across the country, Allstate is committed to strengthening our communities, protecting our customers, providing a great place to work and operating our business with integrity. That's our stand.

Volunteering in the community: Helping Hands

More than 50 percent of Allstate employees participate in volunteer activities through the company's Helping Hands program. They can be found painting homes, rehabbing parks and buildings, mentoring youngsters, teaching youth about business and economics, spending time with seniors and conducting food and clothing drives throughout local communities. For Allstate employees and agents in Hawaii, "You're in Good Hands with Allstate®" is more than a company slogan – it's a way of life. Through their volunteer efforts, they put time, energy, expertise and compassion behind community projects, making a significant impact in the lives of those they touch.

The Allstate Helping Hands program, which is celebrating 28 years of community service, has been recognized for bringing caring and compassion to communities all across America. With more than 200 committees countrywide, Helping Hands organizes volunteer events that support our communities.
