

Allstate in Texas

For more than seven decades, Allstate has built its reputation on promising to be there when customers need help to protect their lives, families, property and communities. We help people through times of loss. We help them achieve financial security.

The values that help guide our business – integrity, caring, dependability, diversity and performance – are also at the core of our commitment to Texas communities that make our success possible.

The past few years have been a turbulent period for insurance companies in Texas. During this time, many companies closed their doors or stopped offering homeowners insurance to new customers. Allstate has stayed in the Texas market, weathered the storm, and is a leading provider of insurance protection and financial services.

Both here in Texas and across the country, Allstate is committed to strengthening our communities, protecting our customers, providing a great place to work and operating our business with integrity. That's our stand.

Volunteering in the community: Helping Hands

More than 50 percent of Allstate employees participate in volunteer activities through their communities nationwide. They can be found painting homes, rehabbing parks and buildings, working in soup kitchens, spending time with seniors and conducting food and clothing drives throughout their communities. For Allstate employees in Texas, "You're in Good Hands with Allstate®" is more than a company slogan – it's a way of life. Through volunteer efforts, they put time, energy, expertise and compassion behind community projects, making a significant impact in the lives of those they touch. The Allstate Helping Hands program, which is celebrating over 28 years of community service, has been recognized for bringing caring and compassion to communities all across America. With more than 200 committees countrywide, 40 members right here in Texas, Helping Hands organizes volunteer events that support our communities.
