Put your future in good hands.

You want the highest earning potential you can get, but you also want the backing of a brand that you can believe in. That's Allstate.

Maximize your earning potential

One thing we do to give you room to grow is remove the ceiling. With no caps on what you can earn, the sky's the limit for your bottom line.

No franchise or royalty fees

Unlike other small business opportunities, Allstate doesn't require franchise or royalty fees to open an agency. All that we ask is that you have $100,000 (minimum) in spendable capital and use it to directly invest in the growth of the business.

Great compensation

We give you a highly competitive commission structure, plus the recognition and production incentives to back it up.

Build a legacy

As an Agency Owner, you own an economic interest in the business. This gives you the freedom to sell to a qualified buyer or back to Allstate. You also have the opportunity to pass it on to your children or another family member.*

One of the most recognized brands in America

Two-thirds of people recognize the Allstate Good Hands® tagline. That's a pretty big brand that has your back. For over 85 years, Allstate Agency Owners have had this respected brand behind them every step of the way.

The advantages of choosing insurance can really add up:

In demand. While some businesses are at the mercy of market fluctuations, insurance is something most people need.

Revenue you can rely on. You receive a commission both when a policy is written and when it's renewed.

No wasted income. Without an inventory, you don't need to worry about losing money to storage, spoilage or waste.

Drive your own success.

If you're looking to build a future and not just thinking short term, few small business opportunities offer the profit potential of being an Allstate Agency Owner.

Many ways to earn

Allstate's portfolio won't box you in. It gives you the opportunity to sell a wide range of products, from auto to home and business to life. Plus, when you partner with an Allstate personal financial representative, you can write policies for life, retirement and education savings to receive even more commissions and bonuses. The more you sell, the more you earn.

A-list advantages

- Base commission
- Constant stream of revenue from renewal commissions
- Start-up and annual bonuses
- Opportunity to own more than one location

Hard work pays off

As an Agency Owner, your hard work could qualify you for a variety of rewards and perks.

- Attend once-in-a-lifetime trips and events around the world
- Network with fellow Agency Owners at business forums across the country

10% of Agency Owners gross over half a million in revenue annually.*

*Based on a majority of Allstate Agents' gross income earned during 2015 for agents with greater than 12 months of affiliation who were active during the entire year. Compensation information includes actual fixed plus variable commissions (including Allstate Financial) and total bonus earnings. Excludes brokered businesses such as Ivantage.
